Absent-Minded.

Genius is invariably absent-minded. A famous Scotch professor was no exception to the rule. He had returned from a long walk and his feet were sore and tired. He was told that the best thing to do was to bathe them in hot water. This he promptly did in the ordinary course of events he proceeded to dry his feet. He dried one and then put it back into the water. Then he dried the other foot, which he also dipped in the basin. This went on for some time. Then he began to get puzzled. "Good gracious," he muttered at last, "I never knew I had so many feet."

She Said "No."

Mother: Why did you let him kiss you?
Edith: Well, he was so nice about it.
Mother: The ideal haven't I told you must learn to say "no"?
Edith: That's what I did say. He asked me if I'd be angry if he kissed me—Caroline Tar Baby.

A Sporting Jury.

Jake Jackson, a native of Georgia, was summoned to court on an assault charge. The State brought into court the weapons used—a huge pole, a dagger, a pair of shears, a saw and a gun. Jackson's counsel produced the complainant's weapons—an axe, a shovel, a scythe, a hoe and a pair of tongs. The jury was out only a short while and returned with the verdict: "Resolved, That the jury, after having given 15 to see the fight."

Two Employes Forced Into Vault

All Others Persons Made to Get Into Cashier's Office—Police Arrive and Fire After Fleeing Thieves.

By the Associated Press. MOBILE, Ill., Aug. 2.—Six armed men, unmasked, entered the Commercial Savings Bank here at 11 this forenoon, backed two tellers into a vault, and all other persons in the bank into the cashier's office, swept $20,000 into sacks and escaped in a large automobile.

They shot Charles Mohler, a barber, when he ran out of his shop across the street to give the alarm. Mohler was shot through the body. Police arrived as the robbery was leaving, and a revolver fight ensued on the streets, the men finally making their way toward Rock Island, four miles from Mobile.

The gang threw the city into excitement. Citizens hastily armed themselves, jumped into cars and started an automobile pursuit that at 2 p. m. had led many miles into Illinois without capturing the robbers.

As the masked men entered the bank they covered the seven employees and ordered "hands up." The bank employes obeyed.

As the gang crowded into the bank they knocked Emil Kieve, a customer, senseless with a pistol butt blow on the head. They then climbed into the currency and gold they could find, ignoring the silver. This amounted to about $20,000.

Stuffing the money into sacks and valises, they backed out of the door with the employes still covered and drove away.

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., Aug. 2.—Before the Rock Island police had been notified of the bank robbery in Mobile, the robbers dashed through Rock Island, heading in the direction of Galesburg on the Knoxville road.

When the Rock Island police station received warning from Mobile that the men were headed for Rock Island, a squad of policemen in automobiles was rushed to Sears, a suburb south of the city, arriving there just in time to see the robbers' car speeding away in the distance. The police's car dashed on pursuing the robbers' machine, which held its lead, racing in the direction of Galesburg.

JURY DECIDES LOFTIS DIED FROM INJURIES IN FALL

Bookkeeper Who Was Alone With Him and Her Flance Are Released.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Samuel T. A. Loftis, head of the jewelry house bearing his name, who died under mysterious circumstances in his apartment last Friday, came to his death "from injuries suffered by a violent fall on the floor of his apartment after hitting against a door," a coroner's jury decided today.

Miss Ruth Wood, a 25-year-old bookkeeper, who was alone with Loftis when he died, and Roy Rhayne, her fiance, were released from custody following the inquest. Miss Wood fainted twice during the hearing when she was questioned about the drinking party which culminated in the death of her companion. She said Loftis had called her to the apartment to tell her that he would buy a business which Rhayne formerly owned, and give it back to him. Then, according to the girl, Loftis gave her his diamonds, watch, rings, $36 and a jeweled knife.

Chairman of Election Board Estimates That 50,000 Republican and 30,000 Democratic Ballots Will Be Cast.

POLLS OPEN UNTIL 7 O'CLOCK TONIGHT

Voters Today Are Deciding on Party Nominees for U. S. Senate and State and Local Offices.

A telephone poll of precinct voting places, made between 1:15 and 2 p. m. from election board headquarters, indicated that about 28 per cent of the total registered voters had been cast in the primary up to that time. Earlier in the day, on the basis of a comparatively heavy morning vote, Chairman Arnold of the board had estimated that the total vote would be about $0,000, of which about 50,000 would be Republican and 30,000 Democratic.

The early afternoon figures made it appear that the ratio of Republican to Democratic ballots cast was running nearer three to one than the chairman's estimate of 5 to 3. At this rate, if the total vote was $0,000, there would be 60,000 Republican and 20,000 Democratic ballots.

In the telephone poll, one voting place in each of the 28 wards was selected. The total vote which had been cast in the precincts up to 1:15, of a registration of 7144, or 27.8 per cent. Election board estimates say about one-half the day's vote is usually cast by 1:15 p. m. The polling places opened at 6 a. m. and will close at 7 p. m.

Nominees of both parties for the United States Senate and House of Representatives, State offices and Legislatures, Judgeships and several local offices are being selected in the primary. Party committees are being elected.

In the August primary of 1916, when nominations for the same offices were made, a total vote of 70,558 was cast in St. Louis for all candidates for Governor. The number of registered voters at that time was 119,744. The present number of registered voters is 125,366.

Estimate of Vote at 1:30 P. M.

By the ratio indicated by the 28 precincts which were polled by telephone, the vote cast in all the precincts up to 1:30 p. m. would have been 37,622.

In the wards where the election officials gave the number of Republican and Democratic ballots used, and in nearly every case the Republican ballots cast were largely in excess of the Democratic.

It was reported in 40me wards that Democrats were calling for Republican ballots, wishing to have a hand in the Democratic contest, and there is only one contest on the local Democratic ticket. Democrats who did this deprived themselves of a vote in their own party contests for Senator and Governor.

Votes May Be Challenged.

The law provides that a voter asking for the ballot of either party in the primary may be challenged, and required to make oath that he intends to vote the ticket of that party in the general election. There is no legal penalty for changing one's mind and voting the ticket of the other party in the election after having taken such an oath in the primary.

In the Eighth Ward, Tenth Precinct, at 1453 South Twelfth street, 67 votes had been cast out of a registration of 375, and the party division was 50 Republican to 17 Democratic ballots.

In the Thirteenth Ward, Second Precinct, 5090 Alaska avenue, 101 of 215 votes had been cast, and 95 ballots were Republican, five Democratic and one Socialist. This is the home ward of John Schmitt and C. E. Mohrstadt, rival Republican candidates for Sheriff.

Most of Ballots for G. O. P.

In the Twenty-ninth Ward, Twentieth Precinct, 5482 Eastern avenue, 60 of 245 votes had been cast, and the Republican vote was 45 to 15 Democratic. In the Twenty-sixth Ward, Fifth Precinct, 1144 Union boulevard, 115 of 236 votes were in, and they stood 85 Republican and 27 Democratic.

Two women were electioneering at each of the 28 polling places in the Fourthteen in behalf of Edgar A. Nicolai, who is seeking re-election to the Republican committee. Women have no vote in the primary. This is a State-wide primary, and in all parts of Missouri, as here, local

Saloon Owners Open on Election Day First Time in Many Years

Strict Interpretation of Law Forbids Giving Away of Drink From 'Private Stock' Today.

For the first time in many years saloons today are open on an election day. Theoretically they are all "near saloons" now and not subject to excise regulation, but extra efforts were made to prevent tilting of the lid. The entire force of prohibition enforcement agents was assigned to see that voters and workers at the primary did not mix their politics with liquor.

Regardless of the Volstead act or the suspended excise regulations, there is a State law which makes it a misdemeanor with a maximum penalty of $100 fine and 30 days in jail to sell, or give away intoxicants on an election day. Under a strict interpretation of this law a person could be punished for giving a friend a drink out of his "private stock" today.

David Nolan, acting head of the local prohibition enforcement office, appealed to Police Chief O'Brien yesterday for aid in preventing violations, saying he had been ordered by officials at Washington to do so. Chief O'Brien said his order issued to the police Saturday covered the subject. The Chief's order included the following paragraph: "Police officers will be vigorous to see that no liquor is allowed to be brought into a polling place."

It has been estimated that about 600 former saloons in St. Louis are still open as soft-drink places.

"Makes Up" First Page of Own Paper While Employees Look On.

By the Associated Press. BOSTON, Aug. 2.—Senator Harding, the Republican presidential nominee, is going to prove to the public that he is a real printer. Today he threw aside his coat, rolled up his sleeves and "made up" the first page of his paper while motion picture cameras recorded his actions.

All work at the newspaper plant suspended while the pictures were being made and employees gathered about to see their boss working while they loafed. The Senator kept up a rapid-fire conversation with his foreman while at work.

Pictures also were made of him inspecting an edition just as it came from the press while the press was running. Senator Harry S. New of Indiana was included in this picture.

To what extent Senator Harding may deviate from the front porch campaign policy has not yet been determined, though the general impression prevails among many Republican leaders that there will be some speeches made by the Republican presidential nominee outside Ohio before the campaign closes.

"No one in authority has said there would under no circumstances be any deviation from the front porch campaign," Senator New, chairman of the speakers' bureau of the National Campaign Committee, stated, after his conference.

"It may be that occasion will arise that he speak elsewhere than from his front porch, but this is for the future to determine."

Early Gain of 15 Cents and Drop of 6 Cents Is Followed by Jump to $2 3/4 for March.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Wheat made a steep advance in price today, as a result of increased speculative buying, stimulated by European war talk.

In a little more than a single hour an extreme upward swing of 15 cents a bushel had taken place, March delivery touching $2.30, as against $2.15 at yesterday's finish.

Later, the market jumped still higher, and before midday had scored 16 1/2 cent gain. December delivery reaching a top level of $2.29, compared with $2.13 at yesterday's close. Then a setback of more than 6c ensued.

The market bounded up again at the last, and closed nervous at virtually the topmost point of the day, with March at $2.32 1/4, an advance of 17 1/2 cents a bushel during today's session. December climbed to $2.30 but finished at $2.29, an almost sheer ascent of 15 1/2 cents.

PEACE PARLEY OF RUSSIANS AND POLES IS DELAYED

Polish Delegates Go Back to Warsaw When Soviet Representatives Demand That Conference Have Power to Sign Armistice Agreement and Protocol.

SOVIETS FORMED IN OCCUPIED POLAND

Bolsheviks, in Drive to Capture Warsaw Before Negotiations for Truce Put End to Fighting, Get Within 60 Miles of City.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, Aug. 3.—Negotiations for an armistice between Poland and Soviet Russia have been delayed, according to a wireless dispatch received here from Moscow. It says the Polish delegation left Baranovitch for Warsaw Monday to present to its Government the Soviet demand that the Polish delegates be given mandates for signing not only an armistice agreement but also a protocol setting forth fundamental conditions of peace.

"Without this," the message declares, "it will be impossible to conclude an armistice."

The Russians, the message says, informed the Polish delegates that they must return to Warsaw to present this question for the decision of the Polish Government.

A provisional Soviet has been formed in the parts of Poland that have been occupied by Soviet troops, according to a wireless message received here from Moscow today.

Julian Maslowsky is chairman of the new formed body, adds the dispatch.

The new Soviet has issued a manifesto to the laborers of Poland, exhorting them to rise "against Pilsudski's bourgeoisie, land-owner government."

The manifesto declares that a stable peace between Russia and Poland is only possible through Soviets of the workers.

Heads Driving for Warsaw Before Truce Is Signed.

By the Associated Press.

WARSAW, Aug. 3.—Brest-Litovsk, the last great fortress guarding Warsaw from the east, has apparently fallen before a tremendous assault by the Russian Bolsheviks. North of that place Soviet forces have smashed their way forward in their drive westward to a point only 60 miles east of this city.

Over a front of 120 miles, Polish armies are being pushed to pieces before the rush of Bolshevik hordes, which are being hurried into the battle in a desperate attempt to capture Warsaw before the conclusion of the armistice conference at Kobryn. Reinforcements are everywhere being hurried to the front by the Russians to complete the defeat of the Poles before hostilities are halted.

An official statement issued late last night showed the Soviet armies had reached a line running from Kosak to Ciechanowicz, which is only 60 miles from this city, with which it is connected by an excellent automobile highway.

Assault on Lemberg Likely.

Great masses of Bolsheviks have been flung against the Polish breastworks defending the part of Brest-Litovsk east of the River Bug. Fighting there has been very heavy, and the forces were in control of the eastern half of the town. It is officially admitted the Russians have reached Mielnik, northeast of Brest-Litovsk.

Far to the southeast, near Brody, the Bolsheviks have rushed reinforcements into the line and it is expected that a terrific attack will be launched there for the purpose of capturing Lemberg before an armistice is declared.

Bolsheviks Use Fresh Forces.

On the northern sector, Soviet troops have advanced and have reached the region of Ostrolenka, which is but 60 miles from Warsaw. Cavalry regiments from the extreme tip of the right wing of the Bolshevik line are here too, fresh forces are being brought up. Apparently it is planned to carry the drive much nearer this city before Wednesday, the earliest date set by the Soviet plenipotentiaries for reaching a decision relative to an armistice with Poland.

"The Bolsheviks," said last night's official statement, "have reached the line running through Kosak, Mazowiec, Vysokoski, Koselinske and Ciechanowicz."

"On the northern front, the line from Ostrolenka to the Prussian frontier is unchanged. In the region of Lomza the Poles are making a stand against Soviet cavalry, but fresh enemy reinforcements have been thrown into the fight southwest of that city."

Statement of Ostrolenka was the first indication that the Bolsheviks had passed the River Plesna. Ostrolenka is southwest of Lomza.

U. S. Consulate at Warsaw Worked All Day Sunday Using Passports.

WARSAW, Aug. 3.—Applications for passport visas by persons wishing to leave Warsaw have more than doubled at the American Consulate since the beginning of the Soviet offensive against Poland. Consulate employees worked all day Sunday, and did not leave their desks until late at night, and it was stated that upward of 2000 visas are passed upon each week. Most of the applicants are women and children who have friends in America. Many of these have previously planned to cross the Atlantic, and the recent Bolshevik activity has had a decided tendency to increase their desire to depart. Many are refugees from districts now held by the Soviet armies.

Crowds jammed the streets near the Consulate on Sunday, and extra gendarmes were stationed there to maintain order and to divert traffic to other streets. Lines of applicants during the last few days have extended around the entire block, and nearly around an adjacent block.

As a war measure, the military authorities have prohibited the sale of alcoholic beverages, with the exception of beer, in the Warsaw district. Music in cafes has been prohibited, and many musicians, actors and artists have gone to the front.

Chairman of Soviet in Poland Identified With Communists.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Julian Maslowsky, who is chairman of the provisional Soviet formed in parts of Poland occupied by Bolshevik forces, was identified in Polish circles here today as a German-Pole and Social Democrat who has been in Moscow since the Russian revolution, in charge of dissemination of Soviet propaganda in Poland. Author of various works of interpretation of communist doctrines, Maslowsky, before the war, was said to have been a prisoner in Siberia, having frequently come under the condemnation of the Imperial Russian Government for his radical activities.

Polish representatives here believe that Maslowsky, if not actually a member of the Russian Armistice Commission, will take a prominent advisory position in the Soviet negotiations with Poland.

DANIELS SAYS NAVY IS INVESTIGATING ALASKA OIL

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Navy and Geological Survey officials are investigating recently discovered oil supplies in Alaska, Secretary Daniels announced today upon his return to Washington after a tour of Alaska and the West. It is hoped, he said, that the Alaskan oil lands eventually will yield a large part of the oil supply necessary for the Pacific fleet.

Coal deposits totaling between 400,000 and 500,000 tons are already in sight in the navy's coal reserves in Alaska, Daniels said, with good prospects for a very much larger supply. Arrangements are being made to mine and wash the coal for the use of the Pacific fleet, the Secretary said, adding that the Interior Department also would develop large deposits of coal on Government land for commercial uses.

COURTMARTIAL TO SUPPLANT CROWN COURTS IN IRELAND

Duties of Crown Tribunals to Be Taken Over by Military Even in Civil Cases Under New Bill.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Duties of Crown tribunals in Ireland will be taken over by courtmartial even to the extent of settling civil disputes, infliction of fines and the binding of accused persons over to keep the peace, under the terms of the new Irish bill.

Military courts also will take over the duties of Coroners. The courts will be given the power to compel witnesses to attend hearings and to enforce orders for the presentation of documents. Persons convicted by them may be imprisoned in any part of Great Britain.

Armed raiders held up the occupants of the Mizenhead Lighthouse, County Cork, Saturday, and took away 1200 rounds of signaling ammunition. The Rossire Coast Guard Station also was raided and the signaling apparatus taken.

According to some of the newspapers today, successive raids on light-houses have been made in the past few days, diverting attention from the Government's plan to take over the duties of the tribunals.

The bill is a two-column bill, opened with a declaration that the Government is not in sympathy with attacks made upon the tribunals. St. Louis public utilities attorney, in connection with opposition to Mayor for Ireland, said: "I am in favor of the nomination of Charles H. Mayer because I believe his nomination will contribute more than that of any other candidate to the success of the Democratic party. I believe that Judge Mayer will make a great Governor and as his personal friend, am for him to the limit."

SENATORIAL FIGHT MAIN ONE IN COUNTY

Principal Contest Between Gardner and Ralph: Annexation Question Involved.

In St. Louis County the principal fight at the primary election today is between Senator Gardner and prosecuting Attorney Ralph for the Republican nomination for the State Senate. Gardner is supported by part of the courthouse crowd and Ralph is backed by Fred Eschen, county boss. Eschen and Gardner were formerly close friends, but have fallen out and are saying things about each other.

Gardner has been fighting annexation and his supporters say he will lose in the territory adjacent to St. Louis, but will gain in the country districts, where he has been telling the farmers that their farms will be confiscated by annexation. Ralph's supporters say he, too, is opposed to annexation.

LABOR OPPOSES GARDNER.

The State Federation of Labor is opposing Gardner on account of his attitude toward the Workmen's Compensation law.

Ralph's friends have issued a dodger asserting that Collector Willman, for whom Gardner is attorney, has failed to collect $415 taxes, from 1912 to 1919. Judge J. W. Wurdeman's home at Old Orchard Park, Wurdeman, who is a Gardner supporter, says the home is in his wife's name, and admits that the taxes have not been paid, but says it is due to a "legal tangle."

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE SPLIT.

The Democratic Central Committee is split over Breckinridge Long and Charles H. Mayer for the State Senate, but is unanimously for Atkinson for Governor. The Democrats have no candidates for State Senator or Representative in the first and second districts. The successful faction will name these.

HOLLISTER MAKES APPEAL AT LAST MINUTE FOR MAYER

Plea in Jefferson City Paper Results in Orders From Atkinson and Farris Men to "Knife Long."

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 3.—An election morning, last-minute attempt by W. R. Hollister, executive secretary of the Democratic National Committee, through his newspaper, the Jefferson City Capital-News, to obtain support for Charles H. Mayer of St. Joseph for the Democratic nomination for Governor, crossed supporters of Mayor Atkinson and Frank H. Farris, Mayer's opponents, and all morning telegrams were going out to Atkinson and Farris supporters throughout the State to "knife Long" in retaliation.

The Capital-News is strong in its support of Long and has generally been considered the Long mouth-piece among the Democratic newspapers of Missouri. Several months ago Long issued a statement to the effect that he had no financial interest in the paper.

This morning the paper had several stories headed by Long's candidacy and also had on the front page the declaration of support of Mayer in the form of a two-column box.

It opened with a declaration that Hollister was not in sympathy with attacks made upon Morton Jordan, St. Louis public utilities attorney, in connection with opposition to Mayor for Ireland, said: "I am in favor of the nomination of Charles H. Mayer because I believe his nomination will contribute more than that of any other candidate to the success of the Democratic party. I believe that Judge Mayer will make a great Governor and as his personal friend, am for him to the limit."

LAUCK WOULD PUT FREIGHT INCREASE ON PRODUCERS

Brotherhood Economist Points Out That if Applied to Living Cost, Advance Would Be Less Than One Per Cent.

By the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—W. Jett Lauck, consulting economist of the railroad brotherhoods, whose profit-eering studies have been published in the Post-Dispatch, said today that the entire increase in freight rates allowed the railroads by the Interstate Commerce Commission should be borne by producers and distributors. The total increase is estimated at $1,200,000,000, or approximately $12 per capita. If the burden were passed on to the public, Lauck pointed out, the increase in the cost of living to the average family, assuming the average income to be $1200 a year, would be less than 1 per cent.

48 OF 60 MINES IN BELLEVILLE DISTRICT WORKING

Day Men Still Out and Many in Madison and Macoupin Counties Favor Continuing Strike.

TWO MORE MINES AT COLLINSVILLE OPEN

Others to Vote on Action—Coal Now Being Mined Said to Be Ample to Meet City's Needs.

Of the 60 coal mines in the fields near Belleville, 48 are working today, Secretary-Treasurer Mason of the Belleville sub-district of the United Mine Workers' Union announced. The sub-district comprises St. Clair County and parts of Clinton and Madison counties.

Of the 12 there that are not working, three are in Belleville. At two of these the men reported but stayed only a few hours. When the 60 mines are working full-time they employ 10,000 miners, Mason said.

In adjacent fields some additional mines were reported working, while in other cases it was reported that the miners had voted to continue the strike or defer action. This was particularly the case in the Madison and Macoupin County fields. There it was said many men were opposed to resuming work.

Today is the twelfth day of the strike caused by the "day men," who demanded an increase of $2 a day. The miners were ordered back to work Saturday by their national and state officers, but only about 3800 obeyed yesterday.

Mason said he thought it likely many of the "day men" will not resume work, and if they do not return the other workers will not start. The "day men" or "company men" have the loaded mine cars, and maintain the timber work of the mines and some of the above-ground equipment.

Mason said he did not know what action the union could take to force this class of workers to cease the strike.

Two more mines in or near Collinsville were being operated this morning, making a total of five, with 1400 miners, that have resumed operation there since yesterday. A mine of the Lumsden Coal Co., near Collinsville, operating Donk mine No. 4, voted last night to start work. The vote was 25 to 24, only 48 members attending, but the 250 members were at work this morning.

About 250 miners at three more small mines in Edwardsville will vote tonight on working.

About 2400 miners in three mines of the Consolidated Coal Co. at Stanton and Mount Olive last night voted to continue the strike. About 2500 miners of the Superior Coal Co. employed in four mines at Gillespie and Wilson, voted yesterday not to work.

At Glen Carbon 500 men decided to remain on strike. At Troy 350 men last night agreed to return, but the "day men" were not at the workings this morning and operations were not started.

Mine Workers' Worked Through Strike.
One of the smallest mines in Madison County has worked throughout the strike. It is the property of the More Mining Co. and employs a dozen miners, who produce 50 or 60 tons of coal daily. The mine is in Madison County, near Alton, and the coal has been quickly sold for local use.

Chairman Wallace of the Coal Committee, which decided yesterday to discontinue its meetings, subject to call, said today that the committee had no definite report of what mines were working. "The coal mined yesterday and today is ample for the city's present requirements," he said.

The Traffic Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce has requested the members to report any failure of the railroads to deliver coal to them. It was pointed out that the railroads have held coal and in other instances have confiscated it for their own use. Railroads have the legal right to confiscate coal on their tracks when they need it, and they have delayed delivery of coal during the strike.

That was the situation the Coal Committee took advantage of, by directing diversion of coal thus held to more essential consumers. One reason advanced by the Traffic Bureau for seeking the reports is that they are wanted as matters of record.

75 to 80 Per Cent of Illinois Mines Operating Again.
Special to the Post-Dispatch. SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 2.—Seventy-five to 80 per cent of the mines in the State were operating today, according to reports received at the State headquarters of the Illinois Miners' Union. In some scattered sections the men were refusing to return, but in general the strike to the company men to go back to work was obeyed.

Coal production today was expected to be about 50 per cent of normal, due to the fact that it was necessary in some of the mines to devote a part of the day to cleaning

Former London Musical Comedy Star Wife of Tenth Marquis of Queensberry

MARCHIONESS OF QUEENSBERRY.

NEW MARCHIONESS OF QUEENSBERRY WAS "GAIETY GIRL"

Former Irene Richards Becomes Lady of Famous House Through Death of Douglas.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—One of the famous "Gaiety Girls," a former star from the Gaiety Theatre, the home of London's musical comedy, becomes the Marchioness of Queensberry through the death of the ninth Marquis of Queensberry at Johannesburg Sunday. She was formerly Irene Richards, the pretty daughter of a London miller, who, in 1917, married Viscount Brunsford, now the new Marquis. Besides her good looks, the new Marchioness, who studied singing under Jean de Reszke, developed a good voice and became a star at the age of 18.

The present Marquis was 21 in 1917, when he was married, and was serving as a Lieutenant in the Scottish Black Watch regiment. He was severely wounded at the front six weeks after the wedding. The new Marquis and Marchioness are now on tour in South America. They have one daughter, just over a year old.

The name of the Marquis of Queensberry is always associated in the British mind with the father of the late Marquis, the famous sportsman who framed the self-named boxing rules, and the succeeding holders of the title have always taken a keen interest in sports.

By the Associated Press. JOHANNESBURG, Union of South Africa, Aug. 2.—Meningitis caused the death of Percy Sholto Douglas, ninth Marquis of Queensberry, which occurred here Sunday morning. 2000 Miners at Du Quoin Vote to Remain on Strike.
Special to the Post-Dispatch. DU QUOIN, Ill., Aug. 2.—A mass meeting of approximately 2000 miners employed in the mines in and around Du Quoin was held at the Majestic Theater here yesterday afternoon, at which the men voted not to return to work until the demands of the shift men for an increase of $2 a day had been granted, or some satisfactory adjustment of the present strike is made. The men do not favor returning to work pending an adjustment until they have assurance the increase will be granted.

The meeting here yesterday was attended by sub-district and local union officials. Reports received here state that a number of mines at Cutler and other towns in this field are preparing to resume operations.

POLICEMAN FIRES AT FIVE LIQUOR THIEVES IN FLIGHT

Believes He Hit Two of Men Trying Again to Rob Plant on Armstrong Avenue.

A second ineffectual attempt was made early today to steal whisky from the August Mueller Chemical Co., 1100 and 1102 Armstrong avenue. The place was entered early Saturday morning and a barrel of whisky was rolled to the first floor but the burglars were frightened away. This morning a policeman surprised five men on the place had again entered. They disabled their automobile in trying to get away and then ran. The policeman fired at them and thinks he hit two.

Policeman Ziegler of the Soudard District saw an automobile standing in front of the place at 4:40 a. m. and tried to approach without being seen, but a man standing near the machine saw him and after giving warning he ran.

Four others jumped out through a window and into the machine. In trying to turn into an alley the machine was run into a pole and damaged. The men jumped and ran through the Ziegler expected his revolver at them. Two of them fell, he says, and were assisted to their feet by the others, but they all got away. The automobile was taken to the Soudard Street Station. It is a Chandler. The license it bore was found to have been issued for a Ford.

Five Barrels of Whisky Stolen.
Five barrels of whisky and two drums and one barrel of alcohol valued by the owners at $4000, were stolen early this morning from the Nibol Remedy Co., 1201 South Broadway. The thieves kicked in the side door of the vacant building next door and broke through the fire door into the store.

Barrels of whisky and the alcohol were rolled out through the vacant building to a truck. The company had asked the police yesterday to keep an eye on the place at night, but policemen were off duty early last night in preparation for primary election duty today.

State Game Warden Birmingham today sent a telegram from St. James, Mo., to Frank L. Rand of 170 McPherson avenue, and Maro R. Thompson of 13764 Montclair avenue, informing them that he would come to St. Louis next week to look into their complaint that steel traps have been set to catch kingfishers at the State fish hatcheries in Forest Park.

Rand and Thompson wrote a letter to Birmingham setting forth the facts in which they told of having found birds caught in the traps. They protested against the practice of trapping the birds in this manner.

WIRES SET OFF BURGLAR SIREN

Police Guard Mound City Trust Co. All Night After Alarm.

Residents of the neighborhood of St. Louis avenue and Union boulevard were aroused at 11:30 o'clock last night when a burglar alarm, attached to the Mound City Trust Co., on the corner, was set off, apparently by defective wires.

Police found no trace of burglars, but the alarm placed the rest of the night. Officials of the bank detached the siren and expressed the opinion that the wire had become crossed.

TELEPHONE CALL CAUSES DISCOVERY OF WOUNDED MAN

Thomas Horan Found by Police in Room at 1014A North Garrison Avenue, With Bullet in Abdomen.

Thomas Horan, 25 years old, of 1017A North Leffingwell avenue, was found in a room at 1014A North Garrison avenue with a bullet wound in his abdomen at 1 a. m. today after a telephone message that a man had been shot was received at the Dayton Street Police Station. He is at the city hospital in a serious condition.

Horan told policemen he was shot at the southwest corner of Garrison and Easton avenues, by a man who jumped from an automobile. The shooting occurred in front of a saloon operated by Thomas Butler, Democratic Committeeman for the Nineteenth Ward, an unopposed candidate for re-election at today's primary. The saloon was closed when policemen arrived.

With the wounded man policemen found his brother, Timothy Horan, a Democratic election judge, and Nick Anton, proprietor of a restaurant at 2871 Easton street. Horan brothers had been in his restaurant and Thomas had walked to the corner of Garrison avenue and was waiting for Timothy when an automobile, carrying a large political streamer on the back, drove west on Easton avenue and stopped at Garrison avenue. He said he saw a man wearing a straw hat and a dark suit, jump from the machine and throw his arm around Thomas Horan and shoot him. The man then jumped into the automobile, which went south on Garrison avenue, and was lost to sight.

The wounded man gave the same account of the shooting and said he did not know the man who shot him. After the shooting, his brother, he said, carried him to the room of policeman found him.

Horan said that a short time before the shooting he had been in a saloon at Ewing and Easton avenues, and saw a man who shot him. The police that Edward Georgan of 4133 Lee avenue, was shot and killed in this saloon April 25, 1919, and Thomas Horan was arrested because he was seen at the scene at the time of the shooting, but was released. At the hospital this morning he was questioned as to whether the man who shot him was the same as Edward Georgan, but he persisted in his denial that he knew his assailant.

Timothy Horan and Phillips were arrested after the shooting this morning. Horan was released so that he could perform his duties as an election judge. Anton was not arrested.

WHOLESALE LIQUOR PERMITS TO BE REFUSED IN NEW YORK
Whisky to Be Hardest Thing in World to Get in Month, Says Prohibition Commissioner.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Whisky will be one of the hardest things in the world to buy before another month elapses, according to John F. Kramer, United States Commissioner of Prohibition, who arrived today from Washington to discover personally if liquor can be bought here as easily as reported.

Kramer said he based his prediction chiefly on orders issued to the local officials to refuse permits to wholesale dealers in liquor.

"It is generally known that a good deal of liquor is still being retailed in New York," he said, "but there is not as much as was sold at the present time as there has been and there will be far less sold in a very short time."

"Prohibition is a growth and it comes upon communities rather slowly. The people of New York State are fast coming to the turn of mind where they feel that they might as well fit in with the prohibition program."

Kramer said while having ordered permits refused to wholesale dealers, he also was working to insure hospitals, the medical profession, and druggists against any possible shortage.

NURSES' HOME ADDITION COSTS AS MUCH AS BUILDING IN 1915

Expense of Small Wing Equals Amount Paid for Whole Structure Five Years Ago.

A comparatively small addition to the nurses' home at Barnes Hospital, construction of which is now under way, will cost as much to complete as did the original home, five years ago. Both the main home and the addition are six stories high and the original section is 37x104 feet.

The cost of completing the addition, according to the architects, will be from $75,000 to $80,000, which was the cost of the original nurses' home. The home was the last of the Barnes Hospital group, and was finished in 1915.

The upper five stories of the addition will accommodate two nurses each. The first floor will have a large classroom. Each floor will be connected with the main home by a passage and there will be neither stairs nor elevators in the addition.

The present nurses' home houses only 69 of the 160 nurses, besides the housekeeper, and the rest of the nurses use the servants' quarters, the servants being forced to live outside. The nurses' home is on King's highway, at the northwest corner of the group. The addition will be ready for occupancy in six months.

CHILD, 3, DIES FROM BURNS

Theresa Francis, 3 years old, daughter of Mrs. J. M. Joseph Francis, 6820 Nashville avenue, died at the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium at 5 p. m. yesterday from burns suffered at noon in the basement of her home when her clothes caught fire from a laundry stove.

NEW RAIL RATES TO BE EFFECTIVE THIS MONTH

Experts Busy Working Out New Charges and Preparing Blanket Schedules.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—With a view to making the increased passenger fare effective Aug. 20 and the advanced freight rates applicable Aug. 25, railroad rate experts were hard at work today preparing blanket rate schedules.

Railroad executives indicated today that all possible would be done to make the new rates authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission effective before the first of next month, when the Government guarantee of a specified income expires.

To do this, it was said that blanket rate schedules would be used at first, local representatives of the roads working out the new charges on the basis of the existing rates and fares plus the territorial percentage permitted by the commission.

Increased charges for Pullman travel and for excess baggage and on milk shipments, under the present plan of the carriers, will become effective Aug. 20, along with the new passenger fares. Railroad executives said today that no specified date could be set for making effective the new interstate rates, which the carriers will seek to have State railway and public utility commissions raise to the level authorized by the Federal rate supervisory body.

WM. E. JOHNSON SPEAKS ON PROHIBITION AT CHURCH

Question by Man in Audience Causes Call for Policemen.

An introductory speaker in William E. (Pussyfoot) Johnson's prohibition meeting, at the Third Baptist Church last night, was interrupted by a man who asked why the Saviour turned water into wine. All dry workers are accustomed to this query, and the speaker made the conventional reply, which is, "We have no objection to wine that is made out of water. Drink all you can get of that kind."

This interruption appeared to someone to be sufficient cause for summoning policemen, and a policeman or two came, and remained while Johnson made the principal talk, chiefly on the subject of prohibition extension work in Europe. His views on this were published in yesterday's Post-Dispatch.

Mrs. L. B. Houck Elected to Succeed Her at Cape Girardeau at Her Request.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., Aug. 3.—At a meeting of the Democratic women of Cape Girardeau Township yesterday afternoon, presided over by Mrs. W. W. Martin, who has called the meeting, Mrs. L. B. Mrs. Martin asked to be relieved from the township committee because of duties on State and county committees and I was elected in her place at one of the most harmonious meetings ever held. I myself placed Mrs. E. E. Brown and Mrs. T. P. Russell in nomination for the place and Mrs. Martin had no candidate whatever," declared Mrs. Houck.

MILLIONAIRE AMONG 20 COMMUNISTS CONVICTED BY JURY

William Bross Lloyd and 18 Others Found Guilty in Chicago and Sentenced to Jail or Prison and Fined.

CONSPIRACY AGAINST GOVERNMENT FOUND

Sentences Range From One to Five Years and Fines Up to $3000—Motion for New Trial Filed.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—William Bross Lloyd and 18 other members of the Communist Labor party today are under sentence to imprisonment in jail and penitentiary for from one to five years, having been found guilty of sedition. Lloyd and two other members are under fine of $2000 and two under $1000 fine, in addition to their prison terms. The men were convicted of violation of the State law relating to sedition.

The sentences follow:
William Bross Lloyd, Winnetka, Ill., millionaire Socialist and sergeant-at-arms of the Communist Labor party, one to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $3000.
L. E. Katerfeld, Dayton, Kan., farmer, one to five years.

Ludwig Lore, alleged co-author of the Communist Labor Party platform and author of alleged radical publications, one to five years.
L. W. England, Moline, Ill., member of the Communist Labor Party State Executive Committee, one to five years.

Jack Carney, Duluth, Minn., editor of "Truth" and member of the party's National Executive Committee, one to five years and $1000 fine.
Samuel Ash, Chicago, lawyer, one year in jail.

Max Bedacht, San Francisco, Cal., reporter, one to five years and $1000 fine.

Dr. Oscar Jesse Brown, De Kalb, Ill., one year.

Niels J. Christensen, Chicago, one year.

Elin Firth, Indianapolis, Ind., printer, one year.

Samuel F. Hankin, Chicago, one year.

Niels Kjar, Chicago, one to five years.

Charles Krumbeln, Chicago, one year.

Joseph Meisinger, Chicago, one year.

Edgar Owens, Moline, Ill., one to five years.

Arthur Proctor, Chicago, one to five years and $2000 fine.

Dr. Carl F. Sandberg, Chicago, one year.

Perry H. Shipman, Rock Island, Ill., one year.

Morris A. Stolar, Chicago, one year.

Sentenced to Jail and Prison.

The sentences are for the State penitentiary and the Cook County Jail.

The defendants were charged with conspiracy to advocate the overthrowing of the Government by force; conspiracy to publish or distribute printed matter advocating overthrowing the Government by force; conspiracy to belong to an organization advocating it, and conspiracy to attend meetings at which overthrowing the Government by force was advocated.

One of the principal witnesses for the prosecution was Ole Hanson, Mayor of Seattle, who told of the general strike there last year, while the defense summoned but three witnesses, strike leaders from Seattle.

A motion for a new trial was made and the hearing set for Sept. 25. A plea by Assistant State's Attorney Marvin Barnhart that the convicted men, who had been out on bond, be taken into custody was denied. Their bonds were held sufficient by the Court.

"This investigation disclosed an incipient plot, the purpose of which has been proven before 12 men," said State's Attorney Hoynes. "That plot was the formation of a conspiracy to overthrow the Government."

Three women, indicted at the same time as Lloyd and his associates, are awaiting a separate trial. They are Margaret Prevey, Akron, O.; Helen Judd, Chicago, and Clara Kosky, Chicago. The indictments were returned under the new Illinois law against criminal syndicalism.

State's Attorney Hoynes instigated raids upon radicals in Cook County on Jan. 1, and 161 were arrested. Thirty-nine were members of the Communist Labor party, 87 of the Communist party and 35 I. W. W., all of whom were indicted. The 29 members of the Communist party were brought to trial first.

Nine Weeks to Get Jury.

The trial began on May 10, and nearly nine weeks were consumed in selecting a jury. It was the first trial involving a conspiracy against the Government to be held in Cook County courts since the Haymarket Anarchists were convicted and sentenced to hang on Nov. 11, 1887.

During the trial, the State centered its attack on Lloyd, son of a Boston philanthropist. He was charged with openly advocating a revolution of the masses against the Government, and was alleged to have said in speeches that "banks should be blown open to get money to finance the revolution, and armories should be rifled for ammunition."

Other alleged statements of his were to the effect "that only by over-

MILLIONAIRE FOUND GUILTY OF CONSPIRACY

WILLIAM B. LLOYD

throwing the Government can the masses triumph."

Several newspaper men who reported speeches made by Lloyd were among the witnesses against the millionaire and his associates. Masses of documents issued by the Third Internationale of Moscow, the I. W. W. and similar organizations were introduced as evidence.

No Testimony by Defendants.

The chief defense was that "they were exercising the right of free speech" when making various alleged seditious statements, and that they had in no way violated their rights "as citizens of a free republic." None of the defendants testified or denied the documentary evidence introduced.

The Communist Labor Party was the outgrowth of a meeting of the left wing Socialists in New York in July, 1919. When the Socialist convention met here last September, a group of the left wingers presented their credentials, but were barred from the meeting. A part of them then organized the Communist party, and another group, led by Lloyd, went to the I. W. W. headquarters and formed the Communist Labor party.

Both the new parties organized along similar lines and the platform of each endorsed the manifesto of the Third Internationale, issued at Moscow in March, 1919.

RICHMOND HEIGHTS VOTERS HAVE TIME FINDING POLL

Few Finally Discover Place in Bellevue Avenue on Campbell's Forest Home Property.

Many voters of Richmond Heights, St. Louis County, were unable to find their polling place this morning. They looked for it at the city hall, where it was always to be found on election days, but it was not there. A few found it in the cottage at 1059 Bellevue avenue, formerly occupied by Tony Foley, on the Campbell's Forest Home property.

Mayor Jensen discovered yesterday that there was mystery about where the poll was to be and tried to find out. Douglas Lewis, Republican committeeman, said it would be at Hoffman Hall. A clerk at the County Court said 1029 Bellevue avenue was the place. He finally learned that the Campbell's Home cottage was the place. He went at midnight to see J. E. Quillan, now occupying it. Quillan said George Campbell came to him and said there would be $10 in it for him if they could have his house for the polling place.

When Mayor Jensen went to vote at 7 o'clock this morning, an hour after the opening of the polls, he found the six judges, but no clerks there. His was the fifth vote cast. Usually, he says, 200 have voted by that time.

Richmond Heights is bitterly opposed to the Essen faction because of Campbell's Forest Home.

LABOR TO BE NON-PARTISAN IN NATIONAL POLITICAL CAMPAIGN

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 3.—Following a preliminary session of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor here yesterday, the statement was authorized that Samuel Gompers, president, and Frank Morrison, secretary, together with James McConnell, head of the metal trades, had been appointed a committee, with complete power to formulate a program of nonpartisan political activities for the members of the federation.

"Labor is not going to take a stand with either party in the impending national campaign," declared James Duncanson of Massachusetts, one of the vice presidents. "Labor is going to adopt the only logical position for workingmen to adopt, and that is to support its friends loyally everywhere, and fight its enemies everywhere with might and main."

Yesterday's sessions were devoted to listing for hearings jurisdictional matters referred to the executive council by the Montreal commission.

NEW YORKER BRINGING BACK NINE ORPHANS FROM UKRAINE

Wife of Furrier Expresses Readiness to Care for Children, Due to Arrive Today.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Mrs. Henry Perelstein of this city received a cablegram on July 13 from her husband, who sailed May 22 on a Ukrainian relief expedition, that he would be back on the Hellig Olav, due today. What is more, Perelstein said he was bringing nine orphans with him.

Mr. and Mrs. Perelstein are furriers. Perelstein was born in Old Constantinople, a city in the Ukraine, 31 years ago, and Mrs. Perelstein was born there some time later. They have prospered since they came to this country. Her husband has been here since 1904. They were married in 1912 and have a 6-year-old daughter, who spent the last week getting ready for her new brothers and sisters. For the nine orphans are to be part of the Perelstein family hereafter.

Old Constantinople has not been heard from directly since the beginning of the war, and when Perelstein said it was with the expectation of seeing his sister, who he since called, is dead. Some of the nine children may be hers.

"But whoever they are," says Mrs. Perelstein, "they'll be well taken care of. I have a nice big flat and I'm healthy enough to take care of all of them."

The Dark Elegance of Hudson Seal

in the August Sale of Furs

HUDSON Seal, that wonderfully soft, beautifully black fur, is featured particularly in the August Sale. In reality, Hudson Seal is muskrat with the long coarse hairs pulled out, and the pelts dyed the rich, glossy black that gives Hudson Seal the beauty of real Alaskan Seal. It adapts itself perfectly to the crushed folds of big collars. It forms wide, full cape wraps that fall in lines of exquisite grace. It combines beautifully, quite often daringly, with other furs. It is as handsome an evening fur as it is a daytime fur.

The values offered in Hudson Seal (dyed muskrat) are exceptional. These are to be noted particularly.

Hudson Seal Coat with enormous collar, cuffs and deep border of exquisite gold beaver skins, $385

Box Coats of Hudson Seal, 30 inches long, with shawl collars and flare cuffs, $275

Two handsome wraps are sketched. One is a Hudson Seal (dyed muskrat) wrap, slightly dolman in line, that is banded with sable dyed squirrel. The huge collar and cuffs are of squirrel. The coat is about three-quarter length, $695. (To the right.)

The other is a wonderful looking, full-length wrap of Hudson Seal (dyed muskrat) with an enormous skunk collar and big muff cuffs of skunk, $975. (To the left.) YOUTH DIES AFTER BEING KEPT ALIVE NEARLY DAY BY PULMOTOR

Oxygen and Air Pumped Into Lungs
Fall to Restore Respiration, and Pulse Ceases.

Robert Stansbury, 16 years old, of 3336 Vulcan street, died at 3:45 p. m. yesterday at the City Hospital, after being kept alive almost 24 hours by the use of a hand pulmotor.

At 2:30 Sunday afternoon he was operated on for mastoiditis, a formation of foreign matter behind the left ear. Just as the operation was completed, at 4 o'clock, he stopped breathing, although his pulse continued to beat. Oxygen was pumped into his lungs for three hours, and then ordinary air was substituted.

This artificial respiration was kept up yesterday morning and afternoon, his pulse beating regularly, but the respiratory organs ceasing to function unless the pulmotor was applied. Physicians took turns operating it in 15-minute shifts. The pulse stopped at 3:45 p. m. and the use of the pulmotor was then abandoned.

What might have caused the condition was a puzzle to the physicians at the City Hospital, none having ever known a case of such long duration. The theory was advanced that possibly a blood clot had lodged in the brain or else some impediment at the base of the spinal column had caused respiratory paralysis. The boy did not regain consciousness.

BRITISH COMMONS VOTES TO LEND GERMANY $25,000,000

Advance Is Made in Connection
With the Recent Spa Coal Agreement.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—The vote for an advance of $25,000,000 to Germany in connection with the Spa coal agreements came up last night in the House of Commons. It was not seriously challenged and was agreed to without revisions.

Labor members welcomed the proposition what they characterized as a "sensible change in the Government policy toward Germany and a practical revision of the unworkable Versailles treaty."

In the course of his speech in defense of the plan, Premier Lloyd George said the proposal for obtaining coal was much better than sending a large costly army for it. He argued that Germany must pay her debts either in gold or goods. She had no goods, he declared, "but coal was the equivalent of gold, or even more usable."

"However," added the Premier, "Germany is unable to produce sufficient coal, while her population is unfit and ill-fed, hence she must be helped."

"There is no doubt about the condition of Germany. We have impartial representatives there who report the people are not receiving within 40 to 75 per cent of the food they consumed before the war."

AVIATOR LOCKLEAR KILLED WITH AID IN NIGHT FLIGHT

Falls to Right Machine After Starting Dive at 1000 Feet
Amid Play of Searchlights at Los Angeles.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 3.—An investigation was started today by the coroner's office of the deaths of Lieut. Ormer Locklear and Lieut. Milton Elliott, aviators, whose airplane last night crashed to the ground in the Hollywood section without having righted from a tall spin started at a height of 1000 feet.

The tragedy came during an exhibition for a motion-picture production. Spectators said Locklear attempted to right the machine at a height of 200 feet, but failed and that the machine burst into flames at the same time. They said it appeared to them the plane was ignited by a rocket.

Five searchlights played upon the airplane as it started into the spin, and Lieut. Locklear, the pilot, dropped a rocket, which he followed with the nose of his machine.

Both aviators were dead when motion picture employees reached them a few seconds after they struck the ground. The bodies were badly burned and mangled.

The men were in the United States aviation service during the war and for a time were stationed together at Fort Worth, Tex. They took up commercial flying after the war. Locklear going in for "stunts." He was said to be the first aviator to leap from one machine to another.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Aug. 3.—Ormer Locklear, stunt aviator, who was killed in Los Angeles last night, made his first flight on the high school campus here four years ago, piloting a plane that he and his brothers had made. Until war days, Locklear was an automobile mechanic. Enlisting in the air service he received a pilot's commission in a few weeks at Barron Field, Fort Worth.

NEGRO SAYS WHITES WILL BE TOLD TO "GET OUT OF AFRICA"

Speaker at Improvement Association Convention at New York Predicts Big War in Asia.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—England, France, Belgium and every American that has "pre-empted any portion of the dark continent" are to be summarily ordered to "Get out of here," declared Marcus Garvey, president-general of Universal Negro Improvement Association, in an address at Madison Square Garden last night.

It was the opening of the first international convention of the society. Garvey predicted that Asia would soon undertake the bloodiest war of all times to match its strength and civilization against that of Europe, and in predicting this war declared he saw in it the opportunity for the negro to strike for his heritage. The message of peace from the conference at Versailles meant nothing, he said, "for the handwriting on the wall pointed to the big war of Asia against Europe."

Referring to the European war as having been waged to maintain freedom, democracy and justice, Garvey said 2,000,000 negroes took part in it.

"Because we did not get that democracy, freedom and justice as a result of that war," he continued, "we shall organize 400,000,000 negroes throughout the world and flaunt the banner of democracy on the continent of Africa."

Egypt, India and Ireland are striking for freedom, he declared, and negroes will do the same.

TEXAS MOB LYNCHES NEGRO SLAYER OF WHITE WOMAN

Crowd of 1000 Storms Jail at Center and Hangs Man to Tree After Confession of Crime.

By the Associated Press.
CENTER, Tex., Aug. 3.—A mob of more than 1000 men yesterday afternoon stormed the county jail, battered down the steel doors, wrecked the steel cell and took out Lige Daniels, a negro, charged with the murder of a white woman, and hanged him to a limb of an oak tree in the courthouse yard.

The lynching followed announcement by officers of a full confession made to the grand jury, now in session, and also to the District Attorney, J. P. Anderson.

The wife of a farmer living near Center was brutally attacked and later found unconscious at a lonely point near her home last Thursday night. Her skull was crushed and her body bruised and lacerated. She was brought to a local sanitarium, where she died Friday.

Capt. W. A. Bridges, commanding L. Company, Seventh Cavalry, received wire instructions from Austin to protect the prisoner and to prevent the lynching, but was unable to find any of the members of his company in time for mobilization. Shortly after the lynching the crowd dispersed and the town quickly resumed its normal appearance.

Earlier in the day a message was received from San Augustine, Tex., announcing that in the event the negro was not executed today a sufficient delegation from that county would arrive last night "to attend to the matter."

LEAGUE COUNCIL PLANS HYGIENIC BUREAU

International Organization Designed to Combat Epidemics —Blockade Considered.

By the Associated Press.

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Aug. 3.—The Council of the League of Nations divided its attention today between public health and public order, taking up a plan for organizing a permanent international hygienic organization, and ways and means for using the economic blockade with the promptest effects, in case of violation of the covenant of the League of Nations by a member country or belligerency by a non-member country.

Signor Tittoni reviewed the considerations that led to the view that whereas the League of Nations could only recommend the use of military and naval forces to suppress aggression, the economic arm is one that the members have pledged themselves in advance to use against any offender. Signor Tittoni pointed out that a central co-ordinating authority was necessary to make the use of the economic arm prompt and effective, and insure mutual support among the members of the league in order to minimize losses and inconveniences resulting from a blockade.

Dr. Gaston da Cunha, the Brazilian representative, presented his report on the organization of an international hygienic bureau. It is to be composed of a general committee of delegates, all members of the league, and an executive committee comprising members of the league council and four members elected by the general committee. A representative of the International Red Cross and a representative chosen by the International Labor Bureau will also be members.

Headquarters of the bureau will be at the seat of the League of Nations. Its principal objects will be to bring the administrative health authorities of the different countries into closer relationship, to provide an organization ready to act quickly in cases of epidemics likely to spread from one country to another and to protect the health of workers. It is expected to co-operate closely with the League of Red Cross societies.

Leon Bourgeois presented a report of the Advisory Committee of the jurists' conference which met recently at The Hague for the organization of a permanent international court of justice, which recommends that the court be constituted by the election of judges by the concurrent vote of the council and assembly of the League of Nations, their choice being limited to a list proposed by the present permanent Court of Arbitration with a view to Back Feel Lame, Sore and Achy?

Do you get up these Summer mornings feeling tired, achy and lacking energy and ambition? Do you drag through the day with a steady, nagging backache? Evening find you dull, irritable—"all-worn-out?" It's likely then, your kidneys are to blame. Modern habits, with constant hurry and worry, lack of rest, and eating too much meat, throw a heavy strain upon the kidneys.

Your back gives out—feels lame and achy; you are tired and depressed and likely suffer headaches, dizzy spells and perhaps an annoying kidney irregularity. Don't go from bad to worse. Get back your health and keep it! Take things easier for awhile and begin treating the weakened kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have brought new strength to thousands. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

These Are St. Louis Cases:

Franklin Avenue	Schiller Place	Neosho Street
A. L. Flatan, traveling representative Post-Dispatch, 3430 Franklin Av., says: "I have quite a bit of work to do and I think this is what caused me to have a weak back and disordered kidneys. If I would be on my feet long my back would get tired and lame and I felt as though there were a heavy weight holding me down. I felt weak all over. A friend told me to get Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's fixed me up so that I am not bothered now. I give this recommendation because Doan's did so much for me."	Mrs. J. W. O'Neill, 4245 Schiller Pl., says: "I believe strongly in Doan's Kidney Pills and know the worth of them as a kidney remedy. I had rheumatic pains in my back and when being over it was hard for me to straighten again. I always had dizzy spells with dark spots floating before my eyes. I was miserable and run down and I doctored for a year. I read of Doan's Kidney Pills doing so much for others so I tried them myself. They relieved me from the trouble and I felt like a different woman. I keep Doan's on hand and use them at different times as a preventive and they never fail to do their work."	J. D. Evans, crossing switchman, 4344 Neosho St., says: "I had worked in the roundhouse where there was more or less heavy work, and this, I believe, is what weakened my back and kidneys several years ago. I had heard so much about Doan's Kidney Pills helping other people and after giving them a fair trial I was relieved of the trouble. A couple boxes gave me a permanent relief. I take Doan's now when I feel in need of them and they never fail to help me."
Bates Street	South Thirteenth Street
Mrs. J. E. Bowerman, 4100 Bates St., says: "Some time ago my kidneys were disordered and I could hardly keep at my housework. My back was lame and weak and if I was on my feet any length of time, my back felt as if it were broken. I felt drowsy and sleepy and could sit down and drop off to sleep any time. A friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and they relieved the trouble in a short time. Two boxes drove the lameness out of my back and strengthened me in every way. I believe Doan's are the best kidney medicine today."	L. I. Becker, Inspector Street Dept., 1518 S. 13th St., says: "I found Doan's Kidney Pills to be a good remedy for lameness and pains in the back. When I caught cold it always settled in my back and disordered my kidneys. When I bent over there seemed to be a light fever over my kidneys, and when I sat down I could hardly get up again. A friend told me about Doan's Kidney Pills and I tried them. After using a few boxes, I felt much better. Doan's have never failed to do their work."

NO package of Doan's Kidney Pills is genuine unless it bears the maple-leaf trade-mark and the signature—"Jas. Doan."

A safe, certain method for ridding the skin of ugly hairy growths is as follows: Mix a paste with some powdered talcum and water, apply to hairy surface about 5 minutes, then rub off with skin and the hairs are gone. This is entirely harmless and seldom requires repasting, but to avoid disappointment it is advisable to try it first on a small patch. Mix fresh as wanted.

SURE WAY TO GET RID OF BLACKHEADS

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads and that is to dissolve them. To do this get two ounces of calomel powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot wet sponge—rub over the blackheads lightly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear, leaving the parts without any mark whatever. Blackheads are simply a mixture of dirt and dirt and serve only cause irritation, make large pores, and do not get them out after they become hard. The minute powder and the water simply dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clear and in their natural condition. Anybody troubled with these unsightly blemishes should certainly try this simple method.

MINUTES OF GRAND JURY THAT INDICTED MURPHY TO BE OPENED

Supreme Court Justice Says "Good Reasons" May Exist for Dropping Indictments.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—"Good and sufficient reasons" may exist for dismissing the indictments against Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, and his four codefendants charged with conspiracy to defraud the Government by falsifying income tax returns, Supreme Court Justice Lydon declared here yesterday in granting permission for inspection of the minutes of the extraordinary grand jury which indicted them. Justice Lydon said that the public welfare would not be prejudiced by allowing the defendants to read the grand jury's minutes.

"I am satisfied," he said, "that from the papers submitted to me the defendants have shown facts from which it reasonably may be inferred that good and sufficient reasons exist for a motion to dismiss the indictments."

In addition to Murphy others affected by the decision are Assistant District Attorney James E. Smith, who, with Murphy, also is charged with attempted intimidation of Louis N. Hartog, a wealthy manufacturer; John A. McCarthy, former business partner of John Murphy, brother of the Tammany chieftain; Arthur J. Baldwin, a lawyer; Ernest Walden, vice president of the Corn Products Co., and the Corn Products Co. itself.

The indictments returned against the defendants were based upon the reputed high profits of the Corn Products Co. obtained through the sale of glucose used during the war in large quantities.

SECRET JAPANESE SMUGGLING ROUTE TO U. S. DISCOVERED

change with the European countries made it still more advantageous to pursue that trade, but that they hesitated to sever friendly relations which resulted in mutual benefit to both parties. Just what the effect of withdrawing of the Japanese ships from the Pacific coast trade would be on the United States is not hard to understand.

Says Japanese Control Hotels.

J. G. Myhan, State Hotel Inspector, testified that Japanese control of hotels in Washington. He added that they are not making a great success of the business and Americans do not need to fear Japanese competition in the hotel field.

Miss Edith Moody of the City Health Office, testified that certified copies of birth certificates of Japanese children issued since 1918, total 221. In this same period of time 228 Japanese births were recorded. In 1920 a child born to a Japanese father and a white mother was recorded.

It was explained that the discrepancy probably was occasioned by the fact that the recording of births in the state is compulsory, while birth certificates are issued at the option of the parents.

Mrs. O. M. Bailey of Hood River, Ore., testified the Japanese are a great benefit in producing necessary foods as "white men are too lazy to work on farms."

Charge Groundless, Says Japanese Association Secretary.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 3.—The charge of Representative Albert Johnson, chairman of the House Committee on Immigration and Naturalization, at Tacoma, Wash., yesterday that Japanese associations in Pacific Coast States have aided in the smuggling of Japanese into the United States was characterized in a statement issued here by K. Kanazaki, secretary of the Japanese Association of America, "as astounding as it is groundless."

Not only has the Japanese Association not given assistance to Japanese attempting to enter the United States "from Mexico or any other countries," but they have co-operated with immigration authorities in preventing smuggling and in locating and identifying those who have entered the country unlawfully, the statement declared.

It concluded with an expression of belief that Representative Johnson "has no data to prove his statement."

The statement then cited instances when the Japanese secured the transportation of the stowaways.

"As for smuggling across the Mexican border," the statement continues, "it is something about which our association knows nothing. If there is any organized system for smuggling it is wholly unknown to us."

"At the same time we know that the Japanese Government is doing the utmost in preventing the surreptitious entrances of Japanese across the Mexican border. When the Japanese Government discovered that some Japanese were entering Mexico from Peru it went so far as to stop the sale of steamship tickets to Japanese from Peru to Mexican ports."

"As far as the Japanese Government and the Japanese Associations in California are concerned, we feel that they are doing as much as possible to stop the Japanese arrivals into Mexico and thence to the United States. We feel that the responsibility rests with the United States Government to stop the entry of Japanese across the Mexican border. If there really are so many cases of smuggling as have been commonly reported."

"When the Congressional Committee held hearings in California, the secretaries of Japanese Associations submitted to it all the data on the question and we felt certain that our explanation cleared the prevailing doubt as to the smuggling of Japanese. If Representative Johnson feels justified in making such drastic statements concerning our associations it would be only fair on his part to give definite facts to substantiate such statements. Unfortunately he gives no such facts or evidence, and we think that he has no data to prove his statement."

KANSAS NOMINATING OFFICERS AND CHOOSING ELECTORS TODAY

Gov. Allen Opposed for Republican
Renomination by George Snow,
Who Expects Labor Vote.

By the Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 3.—Kansas today nominated candidates for State offices, for the United States Senate, for Representatives in Congress and for district, county and township offices, and chose 10 Presidential Electors for each party.

Gov. Henry J. Allen was opposed for the Republican nomination by George Snow of Okla., who announced he expected the Farmer-Labor vote, because he himself had been a farm hand. Richard J. Hopkins, Attorney-General, seeking a second term, was opposed by Edward Rooney of Topeka. Carl R. White of Topeka, Charles C. Evans of Goodland and E. T. Thompson of Bel Aire were candidates for the Republican nomination for State Treasurer. Charles Curtis, United States Senator, has as his opponent for renomination John A. Edwards of Eureka.

The only Democratic contest was for the gubernatorial nomination, which was sought by Jonathan Davis of Bronson, W. S. Hyatt of Parsons, D. O. Potts of Wichita and O. T. Wood of Liberal.

Socialist candidates for Congress were being nominated in six of the eight congressional districts in the State.

REAL ESTATE COMPANY

WHO PAYS FOR PNEUMATIC TRUCK TIRE EXPERIMENTS

WHEN an automobile owner's tire goes back on him he more or less cheerfully charges it off as a personal loss and tries to do better next time.

It is different with the motor truck owner.

Every tire must do exactly what is expected of it or be charged against his business.

Experimenting with tires is not the job of the truck owner.

The United States Rubber Company spent two years in developing the idea of putting a heavy truck on air before it brought out the first pneumatic truck tires. Even then it was not satisfied.

Even at that time it saw that you could not take an ordinary passenger car tire, enlarge it and make it do what truck owners expect of their tires.

It went back again to first principles—to the foundation—to the bead of the tire.

The car owner who seeks United States standards in tubes is well paid in more mileage for his tires. U. S. Red Tubes. U. S. Grey Tubes.

It created a new type of bead construction, positively anchoring the cords. It put in the right number of breaker strips, stronger side walls, a heavier tread.

The result was a pneumatic truck tire—not an enlarged passenger car tire. Created to fill a need—not padded and bolstered up to fill a market already created.

There are still some sizes of U. S. Nobby Cord Tires you cannot buy. The market is there, waiting for them.

But they will not be released until this company is satisfied that they will do what truck owners expect of them.

The United States Rubber Company has never asked truck owners to pay for its tire experiments.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Soldiers Approve Atkinson.
 To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

On Feb. 25 more than 4000 former soldiers, sailors and marines assembled in the St. Louis Coliseum to discuss the question of additional compensation to former service men. As members of the committee which served in connection with said meeting we deem it a duty to direct the ex-service men's attention to the fact that only one candidate for Governor has made provision in his platform for the State of Missouri to enact legislation for the payment of a cash bonus to all who saw service in the late war.

John M. Atkinson's platform specifically provides for the enactment of legislation to grant additional compensation to former service men. In view of the fact that numerous other states have seen fit to enact legislation providing for assistance to former soldiers, sailors and marines by way of adjusted compensation, as Missourians we have a right to expect similar treatment from our commonwealth, and this we do. Therefore, knowing that in this respect we voice the sentiment of the vast majority of those who saw service we take this means of reminding our former comrades that, in our humble opinion, the condition of former service men, present and future, will likely receive greater consideration and assistance from Mr. Atkinson than it will from any other prospective Governor regardless of party affiliations. Yours truly,

FRANK LEE,
 JOHN L. KICKHAM,
 WILLIAM P. O'LEARY,
 JOHN J. SHEEHAN,
 WILLIAM F. MCKEAN.

Answering Renters.
 To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In answer to renters who are always kicking about raising rent, some landlords have overdone things. There are a great many who have not. They should have raised because they get knocked just the same. If the renter thinks the landlord has his house for an ornament, or that he can eat or live from the bricks, he is sadly mistaken. Renters that are working for a salary are not satisfied unless the boss gives them the raise, often, and if he don't then we will seek work elsewhere. Why? Because everything is so high—the butcher, grocer, shoemaker, tailor and dressmaker have raised. They have to live. But the landlord is knocked because he owns the house. Does the renter think he has no expense? Taxes and water license, ash hauling, which have been raised, too. Why not make renters pay taxes? Are they any different than the landlord, who has a personal tax to pay? And when the renter foot the bill?

I. L.

The Babler Case.
 To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I wish to commend the fairness and honesty with which your paper publishes the sentiments of its readers, and particularly an article in your issue of July 27, in column "Letters from the People," under caption "Candidates Backed by Fish-Funders," wherein your publication is asked to give the names of those who are responsible for the re-election of Mr. Babler as National Committeeman.

Being a life-long Republican, and having the best interests of the party at heart, will also request you to give to your readers this information, so they may, on Tuesday, Aug. 3, repudiate the action of the delegates to the national convention (who, incidentally, elect the National Committeeman), and, when proven without question of doubt to be the recipient and distributor of the Lardson slush fund, his action was whitewashed, his principal supporters being John Schmoll, Nat Goldstein and Robert Moore, the latter two known as the $25000 beauties.

If the citizens expect to elect good men to office this fall, it behooves them to nominate the strongest ticket possible, those without a taint of dishonesty, and those not connected with or endorsed by the Schmoll-Goldstein-Moore-Weeke combination. FRANK SCHURMAN.

The Constitution and I. V. L.
 To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The First Amendment to the Constitution of the United States says: "Congress shall make no law respecting the establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof." It is reasonable to infer that the Constitution also intends that no citizen shall be guilty of "prohibiting the free exercise" of anyone's religion, of inciting others to do so, or applying a religious test to a candidate for Congress or other office, or trying to induce others to do so. Citizens who are guilty of such actions are clearly violating their oaths to support the Constitution in letter and spirit. Their votes ought to be challenged on election day, or they should be disfranchised before or after that date. This ought to be applied not only to the 10 whose names you print as signing the sample I. V. L. anti-Catholic ballot, but also to all members of that organization and to candidates who accept or pay for their assistance or approval. JEFF MACKAY.

BILLIONS FOR TRANSPORTATION.

Rate increases allowed by the Interstate Commerce Commission will yield the railroads an additional revenue estimated at $1,500,000,000. This vast amount of money, larger than the total of the Government's pre-war appropriations, must come from the pockets of the people. It means higher prices, but the railroads will do well to join with the Government, if necessary, in seeing that those rates are not unscrupulously used for unwarranted price advances. The new rates have been granted so that the railroads can meet the higher wages of railroad workers and realize the returns temporarily guaranteed under the transportation act. Public opinion generally acquiesced in the wage advance awarded railroad workers. It must be clear, though, that there is a limit to the railroad wages the public can pay, and that limit has pretty nearly, if not quite, been reached.

Moreover, the concessions in wages and railroad rates are likely to arouse a larger and keener curiosity as to the transportation question. It is known, for instance, that there has been practically no railroad building in the United States in the last 10 years. The reason given by the railroad people is the attitude of public hostility and harassing legislation which strangled the business and made extensions impossible. What rates and privileges would have to be granted the railroads to revive railroad building on its old scale can only be conjectured, but it would run into impossible billions.

The fact facing the American people is not that the railroads are inadequate, but that they cannot be made adequate. It is a financial impossibility. If the money were procurable it would be a physical impossibility. Industrial America has hopelessly distanced transportation America. The only way we can get adequate transportation is by the aggressive, systematic development of our rivers.

It would be interesting to know just how much food is going to waste today on the farms of the Mississippi Valley for want of transportation, while the same foods are commanding fancy prices in the cities. Almost every year we read of some great crop rotting because the price offered would not pay the farmer to harvest it. Sometimes that crop is peaches, sometimes potatoes. It attracts attention because of its magnitude. But the total of a season's wastage in smaller foodstuffs possibly exceeds the loss of a major crop, and the whole loss is chargeable to inadequate transportation.

The neglect of our rivers is among the most shameful failures of American statesmanship. It has cost us untold billions. The only reparation possible now is to get rid of this incubus of inadequate transportation as quickly as we can. We must turn to our rivers. Keep the barges going and add more barges.

THE CITY'S FARM HOSPITALS.

Bonds aggregating $1,100,000 having been voted for the purpose of establishing new municipal farms for incipient tubercular patients, feeble-minded persons, the curable insane, delinquent girls and the infirm. Hospital Commissioner Shutt, as a member of the Board of Public Welfare, has appealed to citizens for practical suggestions on the best method of establishing and grouping such institutions. So far, he says, the only suggestions have come from persons having land to sell. No disinterested, expert advice has been forthcoming.

This is a matter that concerns all St. Louisans. The wise expenditure of this large sum of money will mean adequate, scientific care of the most unfortunate class of our citizens. How can waste and error be avoided in the creation of these extremely important farm hospitals?

Unless it can be shown that good results have come from grouping all the proposed farms together, it would seem to be advisable to separate them. Victims of tuberculosis, for example, could hardly be helped by being next door to insane, feeble-minded or delinquent individuals.

The Board of Public Welfare, it is to be presumed, has obtained reports on similar institutions elsewhere. But Commissioner Shutt's appeal for advice from citizens ought to bring forth valuable suggestions. The Post-Dispatch will be glad to make such suggestions public if they are new and to the point.

MRS. SEWALL'S STRANGE CASE.

In the spring of 1902, Mrs. May Wright Sewall, well-known author and educator, was told by a physician that she had Bright's disease. As she was informed the disease was incurable, she refused the ministrations of the medical profession. Later, as she has told in her book, "Neither Dead Nor Sleeping," she went through a long course of fasting, dieting and exercise, under the care of Pere Conde, who, she asserted, was a spirit introduced to her by her deceased husband, with whom she was then in constant communication. After years of this treatment, reinforced by "magnetism" from these unseen sources, Mrs. Sewall asserted in her book that she was completely cured of the disease; that she had reduced her weight by the loss of 78 pounds, and that her eyesight had returned to normal, after she had had to resort to powerful reading glasses.

And now this remarkable woman has died from the very sickness of which she had persuaded herself that spirits had cured her. But it took 18 years for death to win a triumph.

The questions naturally arise whether Mrs. Sewall was deluded in her belief that she was cured, and whether she would have lived as long as she did, working at top speed and undergoing the very severe treatment she describes in her book, if she had not been buoyed up by her belief in spiritual ministrations. In other words, if she had been a skeptic and had accepted the verdict as to the incurability of her disease in 1902, would she have lived and labored and enjoyed life, as she evidently did, for 18 more years?

It is an easy thing to say that she was the victim of self-delusion. But even so, does it not appear that her belief—call it faith—helped her to live for nearly two decades, when lack of faith might have hastened her end? And 18 years of life as Mrs. Sewall lived it, largely in the promotion of good for her sex and for humanity, was well worth while.

WHAT WE KNOW.

The increase in railroad rates in the aggregate will be a heavy burden on the business of the country, which will, however, be in large measure offset if the railroads give adequate service. Insufficient and inefficient transportation is the deadliest factor of all against profitable business activity and fair prices. It is a menace to the country.

However, the public now knows two things, namely, that the increase in rates offers no excuse for increase in prices. The increase is a minute percentage of the cost of production and distribution.

We know that a substantial increase of prices on account of the new rates will be profiteering.

The public knows now that there is no longer any excuse for inadequate rail service. The new rates provide for increased wages and better equipment. The country wants good service and has a right to demand it.

William T. Hornaday, the New York zoologist, says American fauna, at the present rate of indiscriminate slaughter, will eventually end in rats, mice and English sparrows. The practice of trapping kingfishers in Forest Park is hastening the predicted survival of the unfittest.

CAMPAIGN BLUNDERS.

Neither the Republican nor the Democratic presidential campaign organization has as yet displayed any executive or managerial genius, according to David Lawrence, a special correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. As regards the Democratic organization, criticism is hesitant, because that campaign will not formally be opened until Saturday, when the candidate delivers his acceptance speech, but the failure of the President to invite to the White House the new national chairman, Mr. White, chosen by Mr. Cox to manage his campaign, is recorded by the correspondent as a negative blunder. It is on the Republican side, though, the most serious mistakes are found.

Some of the Republican decisions, announced with the solemnity of ultimatums, are already wobbling. For example, the sacred limit of $1000 for individual campaign subscriptions is to be tilted, if not entirely removed, presumably because the returns as set forth in the prospectus of Chairman Will Hays have failed to materialize. It appears, too, that the Harding practice of heckling his opponent has not evoked a satisfactory reaction. The consequence is that such cheap, tawdry tactics will likely be abandoned—for which a relieved public will give thanks.

It seems, too, that the fundamental strategy of the Republican campaign, namely, the front-porch attack, may be shelved in favor of an aggressive itinerant. This strategy, it should be said, has not fairly been tested, but the experiment, as far as it has proceeded, is disappointing. Certainly, if the address delivered to the Richland County delegation Saturday is a sample of Mr. Harding's front-porch persuasion, another method must be devised. Such a speech would have done well enough for an Old Home Week, but as an argument before the jury of the American people for the return of the Republican party to power it was parochially flat and colorless.

The front porch, of course, is a sounding board to carry the capacity of the Republican party and the fitness of its spokesman into every American home. McKinley, with his mastery of statistics and his extraordinary talent for discussing the tariff in epigram, focused attention on Canton. The resemblance between Mr. Harding and McKinley, however, is one of temperament, apparently, rather than talent. In any event, confidence in the front-porch policy is beginning to ooze, and Mr. Harding will probably try to negotiate the journey to the White House by the cinder-strewn way of the Pullman.

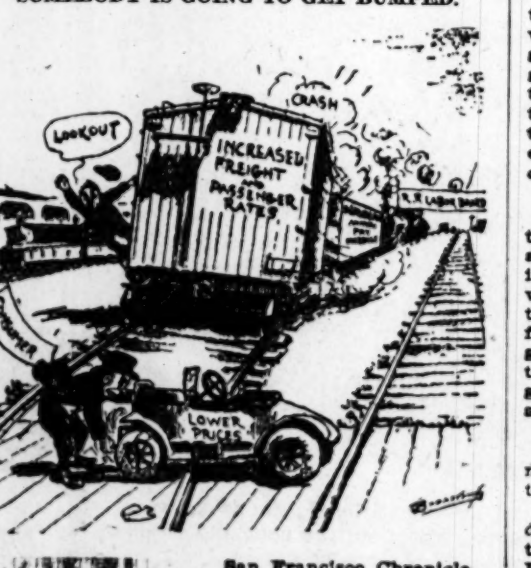

The Interstate Commerce Commission is giving us a liberal taste of freightfulness.

HORSES AGAIN DISPLACED.

The crowd that daily watches the excavation being done at the corner of Olive and Sixth streets is not more interested in the big steam shovel, eating into the earth and stone work of the old cellars as if it were an irresistible monster, than in the displacement of horses by the auto trucks which receive the dirt and debris and haul it out quickly and efficiently, at a rate with which no horses could compete.

City crowds have always been fascinated by watching excavations out of which sweating teams of powerful horses or mules have strained every muscle hauling huge loads of dirt. Humane persons will rejoice that this use of horses is no longer necessary. The auto truck is the natural servant of the steam shovel. It has no doubt come to stay as such. And it will greatly shorten the time needed for foundation work and should correspondingly encourage building.

MR. ANTWERP'S OPINION.

"We have not had a very satisfactory primary campaign in Missouri," Mr. Antwerp said.

"The trouble has been that the people have not been as much interested in the League of Nations issue, which means something, as they should be in the prohibition issue, which means nothing."

"This is too bad, because nothing else would clarify the situation at Washington like an expression of what we believe to be the way we should go in the matter of the league. None of us can see what lies before us, and for all we know the world is going to set its house in order. There cannot be any resentment of difference of opinion as to whether or not the world should go in the way the covenant of the League of Nations proposes. Some of the people who do not believe in it evidently think their opinion is resented, but this is far from the case. We need the benefit of such wisdom as we possess. To have had a really popular judgment upon the question in the Missouri primaries would have aided us materially."

"It goes without saying that we are not going to get it. The liquor question is perhaps an even greater factor in the primaries. We want booze or root beer more than we want to make headway out of the mess into which the world has been getting for so long and has finally got this is, of course, an exaggeration, but it illustrates our incapacity. Is it any wonder the world is a mess? What is our capacity, truly, to make anything else of it?"

"Nor is the fault in the voters of the State any more than it is in the candidates themselves. They have for the most part been running up and down the fence on the liquor issue without concerning themselves about war or its prevention. This has not been true of all of them, but it has been the dominant note of the campaign."

"Let us hope that in the elections later in the year we can have a better expression of what we feel about the proposal to join together to stop war. We can do that if we can get rid of the liquor issue long enough to give the greater question a hearing. Upon the contrary, if we have a sort of chariot race between the water wagon and the police patrol we shall entirely fail in the opportunity to render the country a service."

We are told that England wants the peace treaty rewritten. That is, Englishmen do. Not all Englishmen. Only the set which expressed itself in the Lord Grey letter saying Europe would be glad to have us in the League of Nations without compulsory participation in enforcing the league's mandates. The set in England which doesn't want the agreement so tight the kingdom can't grow any more is bigger than the element which has been aiding and abetting it in the United States Senate.

Alax had just received the plaudits of admirers upon having had the courage to defy the lightning.

"However, that is nothing to Br'er Hay's audacity in opening headquarters for a dry senatorial candidacy in the old barroom at the Planters," he said.

We think it quite likely that Br'er Hay will find out something today. Br'er is a mighty fine defender of the League of Nations, and we don't know of anyone else who could chase Jamie Reed over the State on that issue as Br'er could. Still, he belongs to the witch-burners who are making our country like the Europe from which we fled, and he was bound in good sportsmanship to support Secretary Long. The Secretary had the hardihood to run before the Republicans chucked the League of Nations at Chicago, and not even Br'er had that courage. We told him how it was when he was deciding to run after it had become safe to do so, but he can't be reading Just a Minute this summer. He is reading something without either vision or breadth—probably the Commoner. We like Br'er, old Salem that he is, and we hope today teaches him something. We haven't been able to do it.

The MIRROR OF PUBLIC OPINION

THE INTELLECTUAL BLOCKADE.

From the London Nation.
 SIX years ago there existed an intellectual internationalism. Learned men came and went freely across frontiers, and met in scientific congresses. Every discovery was instantly debated from one end of Europe to the other, and its books there was free trade. A whole army of critics, feuilletonists, popularizers and translators lived by carrying on the exchange of ideas in literature, science, politics and art. The work of our painters found its way to Central European galleries and exhibitions. In music the classical Viennese idiom was more familiar to us than any other, and it was the commonplace of our daily life that German, Austrian and Russian assistants and singers were as much at home with us as in their own countries. Save for the obstacle of language (some might call it a stimulus) frontiers had disappeared for science, literature and the arts. The whole Continent was an intellectual unit, and a thousand various stimuli made our mental atmosphere. Let us not forget that as the engineers of the blockade were, and in Russia still are, the authors of this ruin. It will be a notable event when men and women, whose record was an honorable one during the war, were invited here to lecture and renew old contacts. Every individual who uses the now open post to renew an acquaintance in the lately blockaded continent performs a humane and even a patriotic act.

BOLSHEVIST GOVERNMENT.

LENNIN to Jacob Frits, Norwegian Correspondent.
 SO long as it is possible, the legal way should be followed. On the other hand, it is my opinion that a communistic party which only acts legally is not entitled to its name. But this is a practical question which must be solved for each separate case. Anti-parliamentaryism is not a part in a parliamentary election. As a rule we have always been in favor of participation, but under extraordinary circumstances as, for example, the elections to the Duma, we have favored a boycott. Anti-parliamentaryism is one of the communistic child-diseases I have often had to fight against. Individual terrorism we have always opposed. But we have never failed, at the same time, to express our admiration for the persons who have sacrificed themselves for the revolution. But it will be probably easier in the countries of Western Europe than with us. There they have entirely different organized forces in their hands than we have. Temporarily Russia has taken the lead. But when the revolution is over in Western Europe, Russia will quickly lag behind in development.

THE HABIT OF THIEF.

SAMUEL CROWTHER in North American Review.
 WE often get a wrong start on thieft. We think of it only as buying less, whereas we should think of it as buying more. It is not peculiar to refer to anything German. Yet Germany, in many ways, provides the greatest example of thieft that the world has ever known. The habit of thieft is preached everywhere. All over Germany, banks, co-operative societies and credit societies are at hand to receive savings, and it is a part of the German's life to spend less than he earns. Provision for saving is half the battle; the other half is the desire to make something out of intelligent motives. What an economic education of a people means—and an economic education which does not result in knowing the way and wherefore of thieft is not much of an education. It is evidenced by the fact that today Germany, realizing that wealth comes only through production, is paying for such imports as it will receive solely by production. For instance, other countries will import leather and try to pay for it with some credit instrument. Germany will import leather only on condition that the seller agrees to receive payment in the finished products of the leather. That is, their currency having become worthless, they are being forced to pay for it by the time being worthless in international exchange, they will pay only in that on which currency is founded—the result of productive labor.

THIRD INSTALLMENT.

FOR the next few days it seemed to Susan that she had been living all her life for the things which were now unfolding before her. Joy, happiness, pride, heart's-ease—she knew them all in grandly swelling volume. Grayson had not yet formally declared himself, but she saw that it was only a question of time. "And a short time, too," she thought. "But she didn't try to make it any shorter. 'It's nice to be courted, and I have nearly a week left yet,' she sighed with content one evening as they started out for a ride along the shore. The car rolled slowly away from the inn, and she knew that every woman on the veranda was watching her. "And envying me, too most of them," she added. It pleased her that Grayson had already become popular at the inn, especially with the elder set, Commodore Michelin and his wife, the Payson Demorens, Mrs. Bob McIlwaine, Maj. Dickerson, Mrs. Van Dymant—they all liked to chat with him. Mrs. Van Dymant was the "grandmother" who had come to Donnell on the train with Susan. "I don't trust her much," the latter thought as she rolled down the driveway with Grayson. "She's always trying to push that Ethel of hers!" More than once Susan had caught those dewy eyes trained full upon Grayson—"watching him with innocent admiration from under her sweeping lashes, her glance modestly falling when he chanced to look at her, her hand unconsciously rising to her bosom, as though it still the tumult at her heart."

Susan laughed to herself with curly-nosed derision. "What is it—wit or humor?" asked Grayson. "I'll tell you some day," she comfortably promised him.

They rolled on in silence for a few minutes, drinking in the beauty of thought. In the east the full moon began to rise, slipping its golden ripples into the ocean.

"Look!" she whispered, her hand upon his arm. Clouds, moon, sea and a shimmer of ripples. As Susan watched them fingers of fancy thrummed at her heart, making that magical music which only heaven hears.

Here and there they found young couples on foot—local lovers, the judge them to be. Some of these pairs hurriedly like into units as the lamps of the car brought to out into the spotlight. Others continued afoot in which the masculine arm seemed to the ivy green, while the feminine waist took part of the castle wall.

"The man who first did that a bad example," said Grayson whimsically. "It must be confessed, though, that the Keman showed ingenuity."

Susan smiled to herself, pretending not to understand.

"I wonder if those girls are as happy as I am," she thought, and presently answered herself. "Y-e-e-a, I suppose they are. If they are really and truly in love—like I am—they wouldn't change places with anyone else on earth."

Dimly she began to see that love and happiness are the world's sweethearts, walking forever down the ages, their faces turned to each other, their arms entwined.

"And here I've been fighting off happiness all my life," she told herself, "and thought I was doing something clever!"

One by one she recalled the happiest women she had known. "And she was married. And she was married. And she was going to be married. And she had children. And she had grandchildren."

"Of course, as long as a girl can keep her looks," she thoughtfully continued, "she can always find some sort of a man to take her around. But as soon as her looks go he goes, too, and then she has nobody." Joy, pride, happiness and heart's-ease, all she swept over her then. "I'm lucky," she laughed to herself. "I've got a good one. But, oh! I was only just in time."

By her side Grayson had grown quiet and felt himself shiver a little, as a swimmer will sometimes do just before he raises his arms to make a perilous dive.

"Shall I ask her now?" he thought.

But, manlike, he hesitated. "I'll ask her going back," he finally told himself, "and, manlike again, he hid the real reason. 'It wouldn't be wise to try to hurry her,' he thought he.

They were approaching a popular summer resort where ocean's charms were reinforced with practical mechanics. Somewhere in the welter of lights a merry-go-round was revolving, its organ grinding out an ancient tune:

"I have a girl in Baltimore
Who lives at a hundred and forty-four.
The street car passes by the door—
"Listen!" said Susan, laughing with delight.
The chorus crashed on:

"Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-aye!
Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-aye!"

"I haven't heard that," she said, "since I was a girl!"

Almost before she had finished speaking she knew what she had done.

"I hope he didn't notice," she thought, her heart sinking, and quickly changing the subject she said aloud: "Look at that line of cars. Wouldn't you think they had come over in the Mayflower?" That, too, saved too much of the venerable. "I wonder if the fish can hear it?" she laughed—and felt like Lady Macbeth attempting to wash out the fatal blot. She leaned back, then, trying to shut her ears to the carousels' brassy refrain—

"Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-aye!
Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-aye!"

"We can tag anyone we like—and I like you."

"Shall we start back?" Grayson smiled at her. "Yes; let's." His smile reassured her, and watching him closely as he backed and turned, she said to herself: "Oh, I'm sure he didn't notice. I'm sure he didn't." With a final effort she pulled herself together. "Mrs. Michelin told me a funny thing yesterday," she began. "You know, the Commodore used to believe in spiritualism."

It was a story rich in diversion; but while he listened, Grayson's astonished thought kept rising to the surface.

"Great Scott!" he thought. "They were singing that song when I was a boy—one of the first things I can remember—and she remembers it, too!"

And all the time I thought she was years and years the youngest!"

Meanwhile Susan was continuing her story of the joke which was played upon the Commodore. In her relief and excitement she had half said Grayson, and, bathed by the moonlight, her glance had never been more joyous, her expression more radiant.

"That accounts for her brother being a Judge," Grayson was thinking. "It's not a young man's job. And that accounts for her self-possession, too. She's been through the mill."

Susan had finished her story, and for half a mile they rode in silence. It was a silence which had started in invitation on her part, but it ended in fear.

"You are very quiet," she said. He hardly knew his own voice when he answered her.

"Yes, I get that way occasionally." Three times she phrased in her mind the gentle question, "What's the matter, Grayson?" but she couldn't say it. "He knows, then," she whispered to herself, and the bell of her life began to toll. "This car's starting to rattle," he said, leaning forward as though listening to it, saying anything to make conversation. "I think I'll get me a new one."

"It must be nice," she said in a muffled voice, "to be able to get anything you want—just when you want it."

They had reached the inn. Susan descended, and though moon and stars seemed to swim in the sky, she managed to hold back her tears. "Good-by," he said. "I'll see you tomorrow." Susan wasn't so sure.

She slowly climbed the stairs. Looking over the banister she saw Grayson going to the desk to see if there was any mail.

"Oh, Mr. Salisbury!" called a gay, young voice. And still Susan slowly climbed the stairs. Over the banister she saw Ethel Van Dymant pinning a favor on Grayson's coat. "It's dance tag night," she gleefully told him. "We can tag anyone we like—and I like you! Come on!"

As Susan made the turn of the stairs, she started to say to herself, "That little fool!"

But somehow the words wouldn't come.

For a long time Susan sat in her room that night, the lamps dark, looking out over the ocean and feeling within her those dreams which often seem to come with the whisper of waves, and that vague echo of eternity which only the ocean and the stars can bring.

"My last splurge," she told herself once. "Shall I ever forget it?"

She arose at last and switched on the lights. "I know I look a fright," she said.

Underneath her eyes were two dark shadows, as though Time had been out on a spree with her and she had stayed longer than she had intended.

"I knew it," she told herself, and trying to make a joke of it, she asked herself a rather curious question: "Well, old lady, what are you going to do now?"

For a long time she stared in the mirror, trying to find an answer; and then she turned to her brother's photograph which held the place of honor in the center of her dressing table.

"Glenn," she murmured, "you've no idea what you did to your sister—when you went and got married like that!"

The parable of the virgins arose to her mind. "And they that were ready went in with him into the marriage; and the door was shut."

"Yes, the door is shut," said Susan, "shut in my face, and I'm locked out." And suddenly curtseying to herself in the mirror, she whispered, her lips grimacing, "Oh, you wise, wise virgin!"

The next morning Susan was packing, in a lifeless, desultory manner, when her telephone rang. It was Grayson.

"Could I see you for a few minutes?" he asked. "He wants to say good-by," thought Susan, and pride coming to her rescue, she answered, "I'll be down soon."

He was waiting on the veranda and the disheveled runabout was just over the rail. "I want to go down to the station to send a telegram," he said. "Will you come with me?"

"Our last ride together," she thought, taking her place by his side.

For a time they rolled along in silence. "Do you know," he said at last, "I hardly slept last night?"

"Dancing with Ethel Van Dymant?" she asked. "Dancing?" he wondered, and then: "No, no, no! It wasn't that. She's a nice girl, of course, and I hope some day she'll find a nice boy—but—"

In Susan's mind hope suddenly dawned with a burst like thunder.

"She struck him that way, too," she breathed, less thought.

"But, you see," he continued, hesitatingly, "I graduated from the boy class quite a few years ago—although perhaps I didn't fully realize it until last night—and as I lay awake I began to see how deeply—how completely—I had fallen in love with a real, true woman."

"And it kept you awake?"

"Yes—wondering whether she would have me."

In the joy of her heart, Susan's eyes had never been so tender—her smile so demure.

"If I were you," she said in a low voice that had a note of laughter in it, "I think I'd ask her. Whereupon he asked her, and when Susan returned to her room that evening to dress for dinner, she had a more cheerful thought to exchange with her reflection in the mirror.

"The door opened again—and I just got in," she exultingly nodded to herself, "but, oh! wasn't it a close, close shave?"

A MESSAGE FROM STICK-IN-THE-MUD'S RETREAT.

"WELL, I never!" exclaimed Dame Dammydimmydoe, after the crow had so violently attacked Old Stick-in-the-Mud. "I must say that for once I agree with you, little Pansy, about Spotpootypuff. This was a most unjustified act of discourtesy towards that worthy old wisacre—most unjustified indeed. No doubt the ancient old body is a bit of a prig, but Spotpootypuff has no excuse for behaving in such a way, and of course he has flown away to be out of reach of my just wrath!"

"Won't the poor old wise fellow own there he was upstaged?" asked Pansy, much offended.

"Of course he will be, and rightly," said Pansy. "It would have been a most upsetting experience for anybody, but I know more so for someone who considers himself one of the seven wonders of the world," and tell me we're sorry?" pleaded Pansy, who hated to hurt anybody's feelings, even the feelings of the dullest people.

"Yes, of course I can, but I don't think anything will induce him to succeed in doing that. Young rabbits grow fast. It won't be long before they will be half as big as Peter himself. About that time they will be getting headstrong and headstrong. They will be at just the age to think they know all there is to know and are quite able to take care of themselves. They won't be satisfied to stay within one jump of the Old Briar-patch. They will discover that there are patches of green clover further out on the Green Meadow and they will be sure that the clover is sweeter and better than the clover near home. Sooner or later one of them will slip away to sample the new clover.

"None of those youngsters has seen me yet. All they know about me is that Peter and Mrs. Rabbit have babies. All over Green Meadows and credit so-

Mrs. Gargoll turned in her toes and seemed to prepare for a weighty speech.

a bit slow, but I must protest, in the name of the community, at the insult done our venerable patron; never has such a thing been known to happen before."

"I confess that I am much vexed about it," admitted the Dame. "It is a most regrettable episode, and I quite appreciate the feeling of indignation it raises amongst you all. I am eager to make all amends in the name of my unruly follower."

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

THE LOST TRAIL

I know a little fellow who has been to magic lands
Where forests, built of cobweb trees, are filled with goblin bands,
With tiny folk that dance at night beneath the sailing moon,
To weird, unearthly music which the dreamy crickets croon,
While beetles hurry to and fro with trays of things to eat,
That quite refresh the dancers when they pause to rest their feet.
But though I want to go there, it is all of no avail,
For he says that he's forgotten where one goes to take the trail.

And he has been to frost land, where the Pixies come and go
In funny furry mantles made of gleaming, crystal snow;
Where skaters sail serenely over ice that's paper thin,
And now and then a fat one is tripped up and tumbles in;
The fireflies on the beaches keep the baby Pixies warm,
And no one ever stays at home, despite the coldest storm.
I'd like to watch them with him; we would hurry off today,
But it's ages since he's been there, and he doesn't know the way.

And sometimes of an evening, when I look across the years,
A dim and distant country filled with fairy folk appears,
And faintly I remember seeing all the curious sights,
That he has seen so lately—like the Pixies, all the lights,
All the gay nocturnal dancing, all the fireflies by the shore
And the troops of little skaters scudding o'er the forest floor.
And I long to hasten back there, for another pleasant view,
But the trail one takes to get there—well, it's slipped my memory, too!

A Gentle Hint.

A certain youthful billiard marker was recently informed by his employer that he would have to be more careful in the matter of chalk.

"Can't help it, sir," replied the marker. "I know the gent's wot pokes the chalk; but they're regular customers, and you wouldn't like me to offend them, would you, sir?"

"Well, no," was the reply. "But you could give them a gentle hint, you know?"

The marker promised to do so, and a day or two later on, observing a player pocketing a piece of chalk, he approached the culprit and remarked:

"You'll excuse me, sir, but are you connected in any way with the milk trade?"

"Well, yes," was the reply. "What of it?"

"I thought so," rejoined the marker, "by the amount of chalk you carry away. My governor likes enterprise, and he told me to give you a hint that if you wanted a bucket of water now and again you could have one with pleasure!"—Houston Post.

Sis Knew Him.

Katie was evidently feeling embarrassed about something and she blushed prettily as she told the sister of her fiancé that she would like to buy a birthday present for him.

"You know him better than I do," she said, "so I came to ask your advice."

"Yes?" said her future sister-in-law, inquiringly.

"What?" went on the blushing Katie, "would you advise me to get?"

"Oh, I don't know," replied the other girl carelessly. "I could only advise you in general terms. From what I know of him I should say he would appreciate something that he could pawn easily!"—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Just as a Reminder.

The hotel patron had waited fully an hour for a very slow waiter to serve two cups.

"Now, brother," he said to the waiter, "can you bring me some tomato salad?"

"Yes, sir," said the waiter.

"And," continued the customer, "while you're away you might send me a postal card every now and then."—New York Central Magazine.

Fair Warning.

"You are sure to enjoy yourself here," said the glib-tongued hotel proprietor. "There are lots of pretty girls to make love to."

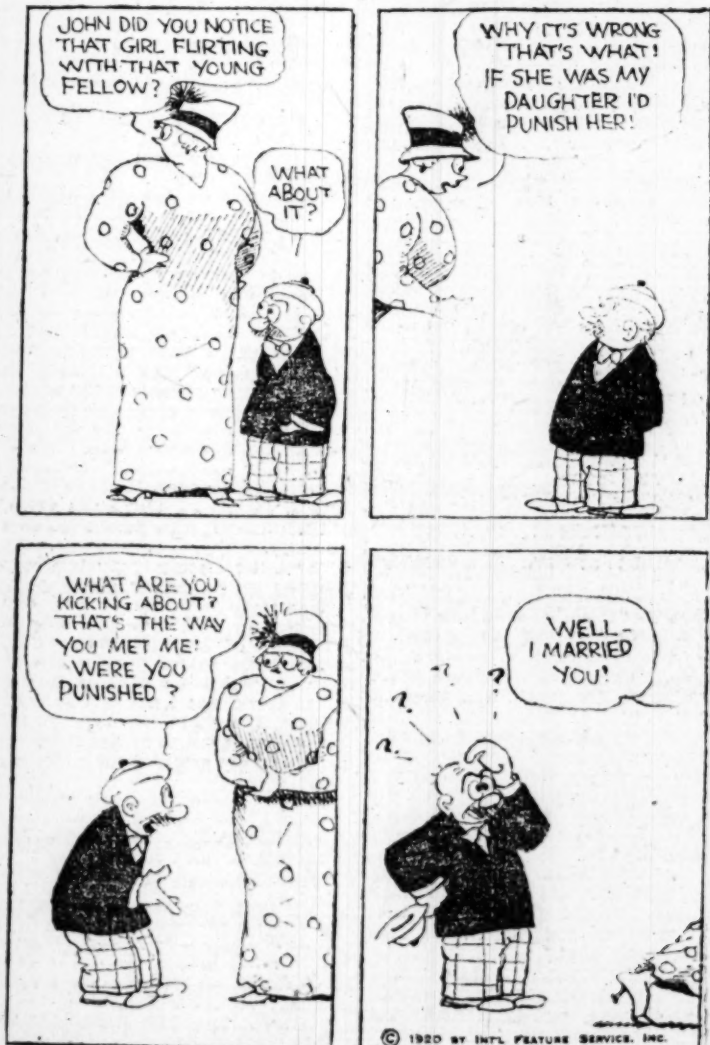

"That's fine," returned the young salesman on vacation, "but there's one thing I wish to impress upon your mind."

"And what is that?"

"I am not one of those chaps who would rather make love than eat."

"Well, professor," inquired the young musician, "how do my compositions please you?"

"Why, I think," responded the older man, "that they may perhaps be played when Mozart, Haydn, Mendelssohn and Meyerbeer have been forgotten."

"Certainly, but not till then," remarked the other.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.
